

Contents

- 5 Zbigniew Kobyliński
What the historical broken vessels want to tell us?
- 7 Jerzy Trzciński, Małgorzata Zaremba and Fabian Welc
The technology of faience bowl manufacturing in the Ptolemaic Athribian workshops in the light of microstructural studies
- 19 Fabian Welc, Katarzyna Zeman-Wiśniewska, Małgorzata Zaremba and Jerzy Trzciński
Possible foreign origin of art decoration on Ptolemaic hemispherical faience bowls from Athribis (Nile Delta)
- 37 Louis D. Nebelsick
Celtic kykeon? New ceramological evidence for the appropriation of Mediterranean sympotic and libation practices in the 6th century BCE Heuneburg
- 57 Urszula Kobylińska, Zbigniew Kobyliński and Paulina Potocka
Graphite-tempered and graphite-coated pottery from the early Celtic settlement at Altdorf near Landshut in Lower Bavaria: imported goods or local production?
- 71 Fernando Agua, María-Ángeles Villegas, Urszula Kobylińska, Zbigniew Kobyliński and Manuel García-Heras
Archaeometric study of Medieval Tornow-type pottery from archaeological sites in Western Poland and Eastern Germany
- 85 Urszula Kobylińska, Zbigniew Kobyliński, Bogusław Bagiński and Maciej Bojanowski
Early Medieval pottery of the Menkendorf-Szczecin type in the light of the laboratory ceramological research
- 271 Katarzyna Zdeb
Application of GC-MS and GC-C-IRMS methods for the interpretation of biomarkers in ceramic vessels
- 279 Notes on authors